Welcome to the American Association for Anatomy (AAA)!

Where over 2,000 dedicated individuals, including students, teachers, and practitioners of the anatomical sciences, find their professional home.

AAA is committed to advancing anatomical science through research, education, and professional development. We aim to foster a community of passionate individuals who drive innovation and knowledge in anatomy.

Founded in 1888, our rich history is built on a passion for anatomical research and education.

Join us in our journey of exploration and discovery as we continually strive to make breakthroughs in anatomical sciences, and together, we can shape a brighter future for the world of anatomy.

Be a part of the best in anatomy research and education.

Engage with your customers by showcasing your products where they are most likely to look for resources — at in-person events.

About the Meeting

Anatomy Connected, the annual meeting of the American Association for Anatomy, engages over 1,000 educators, researchers, and students in an interactive, research-driven experience that inspires new knowledge and discoveries in anatomy.

The meeting features keynote and plenary talks, workshops, symposia, posters presentations, professional development, and exhibits spotlighting products and services integral to this professional community. These exhibits play a crucial role in propelling scientific research forward and empowering scientists in their pursuit of new discoveries.

Why Exhibit/Sponsor?

Exposure

Elevate your organization's profile within the AAA community, which includes educators, researchers, and students in anatomical sciences, healthcare, and allied professions.

Insight

Engage in meaningful discussions about the issues, trends, and innovations that are shaping the future of anatomical sciences and anatomy-related fields.

Network

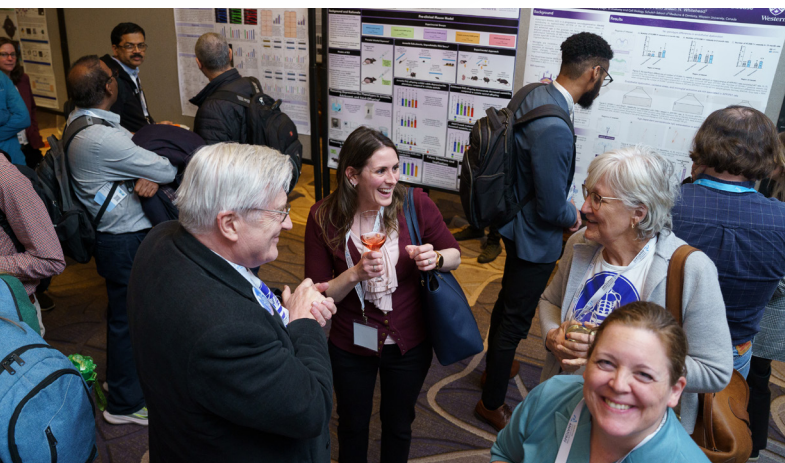

The two-day exhibition, with over 1,000 attendees, offers many networking opportunities. Meet and greet sessions, industry-specific lounges, interactive exhibits, and collaboration forums facilitate meaningful connections, enhance exposure, and foster new industry relationships.

Lead Generation

Build valuable connections with leaders, influencers, managers, educators, researchers, and students in anatomical sciences and related fields to reach a diverse audience with significant influence and purchasing potential for your products and services.

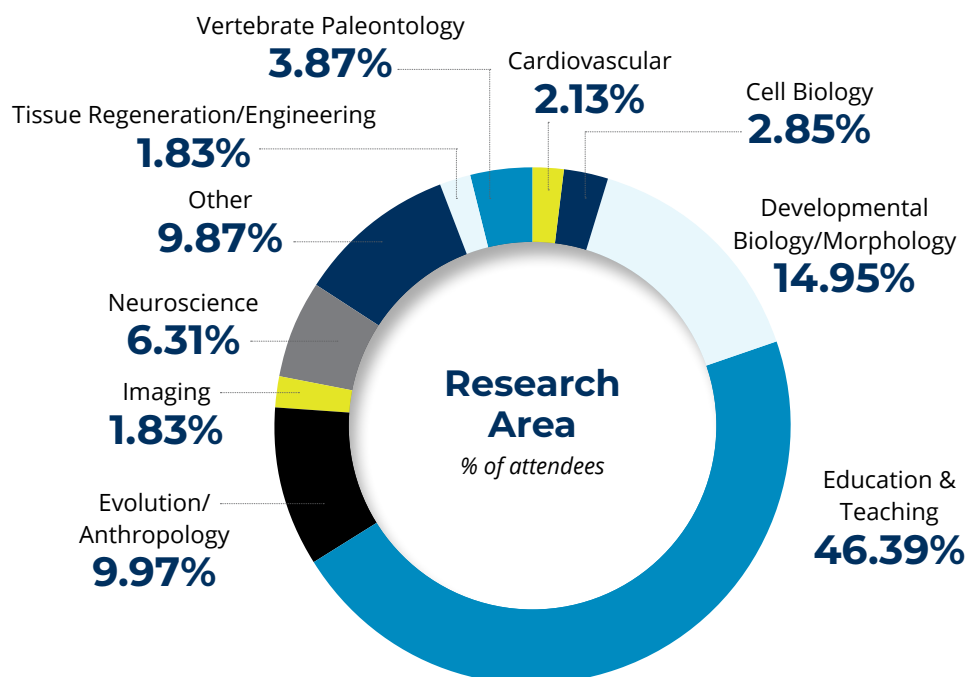

Product Demonstration

Give your potential clients hands-on access to your products and services.

Attendee Demographics

Position your message to highly influential audiences while they're seeking information and likely to make a purchase decision.

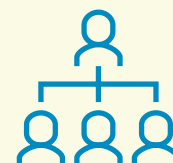

1038 attendees

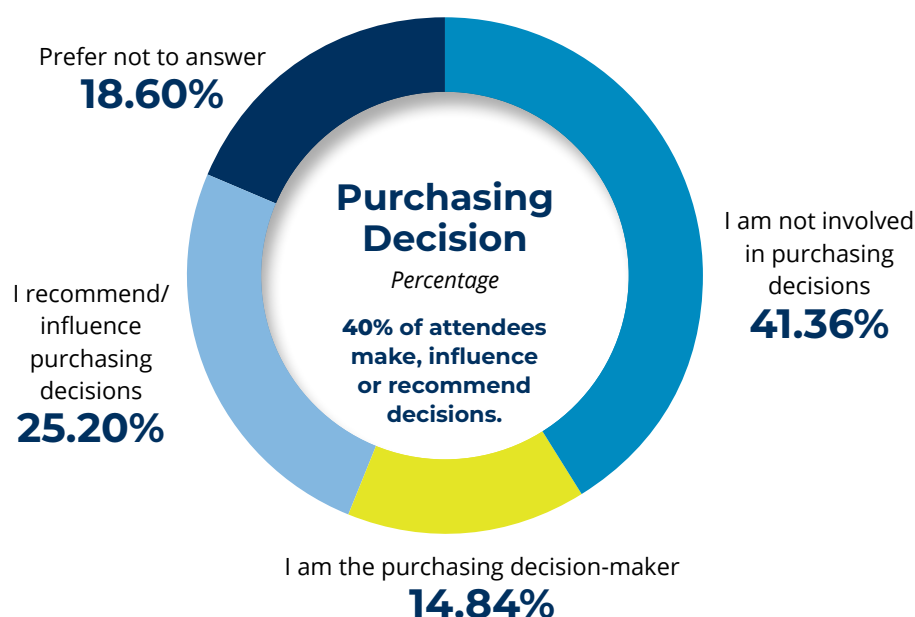

34% of attendees were trainees and 66% were faculty, researchers, technicians, and other professionals
